SAN GINESIO alt. m. 700
Località di soggiorno e turismo

A centre for tourists and for a restful holidy. The pleasant little city within its turretted walls is rich in medioeval monuments, and received its name from Charlemagne in the year 773 to honour the Roman actor-martyr. In 1552 Alberico Gentili, the celebrated philosopher-jurist (founder of International Law) was born there.

From its dominating position it enjoys a wide panorama which from the Gran Sasso d'Italia (the Great Roch of Italy) and the Sybilline Mountains ranges to the Adriatic Sea. On account of its mild climate, its pure mountain air, its smiling verdure and remarkable tranquillity it is a centre much frequented by holiday-makers.
